Some of Denison's lofts are sleek and New York modern; others retain the flavor of their nineteenth-century frontier origins. Some buildings are occupied by the people who own them; others have been sensitively renovated as rental lofts by far-sighted local investors.

Whether these spaces accommodate young, bicycle-riding creative types or elders downsizing with rigorously edited collections, residents clearly relish the cultural and social opportunities afforded by their downtown neighborhood.

Everything you need is a short stroll away - two grocery stores, three pharmacies, 9 restaurants, a wine-tasting room, four music venues, the Red River Railroad Museum, Heritage Park, and more!

Main Street's historic commercial buildings lend themselves to flexible work and living arrangements. Visitors are amazed at the diversity and sophistication of these second floor residences. With high ceilings and lots of space, Denison's downtown lofts offer something for everyone...
